ANTON BAUER

Wagram Cuvée 2014

Feuersbrunn / Wagram / Austria

Radiant ruby; cherry fruit with amaretto tones, red berries and herbs.

On the palate again cherry fruit with dark berry aromas and a pleasant background of herbs, fine extract sweetness, fine tannin.

Finishes with dry elegance and delicately herb tones of chocolate and cherries.

Serving Suggestion: Although absolutely delicious on its own, it will also complement beef, duck, grilled pork, tuna and rich red sauces.

AUSTRIAN WINE

Wagram Cuvée:

Up to the 90's, the little red wine pressed at Wagram was mostly Zweigelt. However, Anton Bauer recognized the limits of this variety, which matures early and hardly produces wines with great structure. Consequently his interest was aimed at other red grape varieties, such as the Blaufränkischen, Pinot Noir and Cabernet Sauvignon, a late maturing type that places a high demand on the climate and which in Austria did not ripen fully. But Bauer was not deterred by this. The area of Feuersbrunn seemed ideally suited for the variety: loam and loess soils, an altitude of 220 - 320 meters, the gentle slope to the south and good ventilation should provide the best Cabernet conditions - and so it proved to be. "When I started here with Cabernet Sauvignon, certainly some vintners laughed about it. However, in our region, the grapes are permitted to stay on the vine extremely long because we have little decay. Under good conditions they stay until mid-November - and then also the Cabernet Sauvignon is fully ripe." In 2000 Bauer first marketed a limited edition of the varietal "Cabernet Sauvignon Reserve".

So this Cuvée combines all of the most important different grapes of the Wagram - therefore it's something special.
